SEGMENT 2 - SUPPLY UNDER GST

Clarification on taxability of shares held in a subsidiary company by the holding company – CBIC Circular¹

- ➔ Securities are considered as neither goods nor services as per section 2(52) and 2(102) of the CGST Act, 2017.
- ➔ Further, securities include 'shares' as per definition of securities U/s 2(h) of Securities Contracts (Regulation) Act, 1956.
- ➔ This implies that the securities held by the holding company in the subsidiary company are neither goods nor services.
- ➔ Therefore, purchase or sale of shares or securities, is neither a supply of goods nor services.
- ➔ The SAC entry '997171' in the scheme of classification of services mentioning; "the services provided by holding companies, i.e. holding securities of (or other equity interests in) companies and enterprises for the purpose of owning a controlling interest.", does not construe that merely by holding the shares of subsidiary company, the services are being provided by holding company to the subsidiary, unless there is a supply of services by the holding company to the subsidiary company in accordance with section 7 of CGST Act.
- ➔ Therefore, the activity of holding of shares of subsidiary company by the holding company per se cannot be treated as a supply of services by a holding company to the said subsidiary company and cannot be taxed under GST.

Clarification on taxability of the supply of foods or beverages in cinema halls – CBIC Circular²

"Restaurant Service" means supply, by way of or as part of any service, of goods, being food or any other article for human consumption or any drink, provided by a restaurant, eating joint including mess, canteen, whether for consumption on or away from the premises where such food or any other article for human consumption or drink is supplied.

The cinema operators may run these refreshments or eating stalls/ kiosks/counters or restaurant themselves or they may give it on contract to a third party.

It has been clarified that supply of food or beverages in a cinema hall shall be taxable as 'restaurant service' as long as:

- a) the food or beverages are supplied by way of or as part of a service, and
- b) supplied independent of the cinema exhibition service.

It is further clarified that where the sale of cinema ticket and supply of food and beverages are clubbed together, and such bundled supply satisfies the test of composite supply, the entire supply will attract GST at the rate applicable to service of exhibition of cinema i.e., the principal supply.

Clarification on availability of ITC in respect of warranty replacement of parts and repair services during warranty period. – CBIC Circular¹¹

Case 1: The original equipment manufacturer offers warranty for the goods supplied by him to the customer and provides replacement of parts and/ or repair services to the customer during the warranty.

The value of original supply of goods (provided along with warranty) by the manufacturer to the customer includes the likely cost of replacement of parts and / or repair services to be incurred during the warranty period, on which tax would have already been paid at the time of original supply of goods. Therefore, in cases where no separate consideration is charged by the manufacturer at the time of such replacement/repair services, no GST is to be levied on such replacement of parts and/ or repair service during warranty period.

However, GST is levied in case additional consideration is charged for the same. These supplies cannot be considered as exempt supply as original supply is likely to include the cost of replacement/repair services to be incurred during warranty. Hence, the manufacturer, who provides replacement of parts and/ or repair services to the customer during the warranty period, is not required to reverse the input tax credit in respect of the said replacement parts or on the repair services provided.

Case 2: The distributor provides replacement of parts and/ or repair services to the customer as part of warranty on behalf of the manufacturer without charging any consideration from the customer.

Where no consideration is charged by the distributor from the customer, no GST is payable by the distributor on the said replacement/repair services provided during warranty period. In case additional consideration is charged, GST shall be payable. The treatment relating to the input tax credit and output liability relating to the replaced products will be as follows:

a) In cases where the distributor replaces the part to the customer under warranty either by using his stock or by purchasing it from third party and charges the consideration of the same from the manufacturer, by issuance of a tax invoice then GST would be levied on the consideration charged by the distributor from the manufacturer. The manufacturer is eligible to take input tax credit of the same, subject to other GST provisions. Further, no reversal of input tax credit by the distributor is required in respect of the same.

b) In case where the distributor raises a requisition to the manufacturer for the part(s) to be replaced by him under warranty and the manufacturer then provides the said part(s) to the distributor for the purpose of such replacement to the customer as part of warranty, then no GST would be payable, if no additional consideration is charged by the manufacturer in respect of parts replaced. Further, no reversal of input tax credit is required by the manufacturer is required in respect of same.

c) In cases where the distributor replaces the part to the customer under warranty out of the supply already received by him from the manufacturer and the manufacturer issues a credit note u/s 34 in respect of the parts replaced. The tax liability may be adjusted by the manufacturer, subject to the condition that the distributor has reversed the ITC availed against the parts so replaced.

Case 3: The distributor provides repair service, in addition to replacement of parts or otherwise, to the customer without any consideration, as part of warranty, on behalf of the manufacturer but charges the manufacturer for such repair services

As per section 2(93)(a) of the CGST Act, 2017, in this case, there is a supply of service by the distributor and the manufacturer is the recipient of such supply of repair service. Hence, GST shall be payable by the distributor on such supply of service to the manufacturer and the manufacturer would be entitled to claim input tax credit in respect of the said supply.

Case 4: Extended warranty services provided by manufacturers/distributors to the customers which can be availed at the time of original supply or before the expiry standard warranty period

- If the customer enters into an agreement for extended warranty at the time of original supply, then it would be considered as composite supply (principal supply being supply of goods). GST would be payable on the consideration for such extended warranty along with the principal supply at the rate applicable on the principal supply.
- If the customer enters into an agreement for extended warranty at any time after the original supply, then it would be considered as separate contract. GST would be payable by the service provider whether it be manufacturer or distributor or any third party depending on the nature of the contract.

- Whenever electricity is being supplied bundled with renting of immovable property and/or maintenance of premises, as the case may be, it forms a part of composite supply and shall be taxed accordingly. Analysis:

- In the CGST Rule 88D, a mechanism is outlined for system-based notification of cases where the ITC claimed in GSTR-3B exceeds the prescribed available ITC amount in GSTR-2B by a certain percentage or amount.
- Once these cases are identified, the taxpayers may be informed through a system-generated intimation form—DRC-01C on their GST portal login and email address as registered with the GST portal, drawing attention to the discrepancy. It is conveyed in part-A of DRC-01C.
- The taxpayer must submit reasons for the excess ITC claim in part B of that form, and supporting documents (if any), or else pay towards the excess ITC. The action must be taken within seven days from receipt of intimation.
- Tax authorities will then review the response to validate the ITC claim and take appropriate actions
